association as a mission rather than a such elaptrap. hobby. They have only just discovered, however, that there are kindred societies at Shanghai and Yokohama, and have never so much as heard of the St. George's Society at Hongkong. The local Secretary ought really to encourage them with news of the moral support of Hongkong. The vear-book snubs rather too severely our contemporary the Japan Chronicle, which had indulged in a dream of cosmopolitanism, ed as "Jubilee Look-out Post." and had disavowed all sympathy with "parochial patriotism". Remarking inthat does not teach patriotism, the report | eign employees on the railway. says it is not wrong to thank God we are be "still more thankful that we are not cold-blooded cosmopolitans who love no country, but only themselves". The Rt. Hon. Sir John Colomb's plea for a wider patriotism may not be inconsistent with the idea of the Society; but it does not seem to harmonise with the comments that accompany it on "The New Ministry". is a queer sort of patriotism which finds out what few of us would have noticed. excludes Englishmen (and Irishmen)! We ! English members may be classed

"Anglophile Scots". That "the representatives of England are relegated to minor posts" is dismaying; and we do hope that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman will, as requested, bear in mind that it is not as the Prime Minister of Scotland that he has been returned to power. As Englishmen and Imperialists (?) we cannot regard the exclusion from office of our countrymen with equanimity. The salaries" (almost a Scottish touch, this) " attached to the respective offices are TO comparatively unimportant"; but Englishmen should have had "a just share of 'the year. loaves and fishes '." It would really appear. adds this distressing report, as if "no English | need apply" were already displayed over the portals of every Government Department. But our impulse toward gentle badinage must yield to stronger feeling when we read such mischievous nonsense as the following:-"Next year (1907) is the Bi-centenary of the Legislative Union of England and Scotland, and there should be great rejoicings in North Britain. It is desirable that this upion should be comented and strengthened; is it wice, then, on the eve of that auspicious event to create racial antegonism by wounding the national sentiment of the greater country? We cannot being constructed. preserve our purely English characteristics, traditions, and customs when strangers are thrust upon us who share our sentiments imperfeccly and have different local institutions. A Scotch Premiership would seem ever to be associated with some National calamity. It is interesting here to refer to Lord Macaulay's remarks with reference to Lord Bute, the Minister and favourite of George III, :- The only effect of Bute's domestic administration was to make faction wilder and corruption fouler than ever . . . the Public Offices, the Army, and the Navy were filled with highcheeked Drummonds and Erskines, Macdonalds, and Macgillivrays, who could not talk a Christian tongue, and some of whom had but lately begun to wear Christian breeches. . . It was remarked that Adam, a Scotchman, was the Court Architect, and that Ramsoy, a Scotchman, was the Court Painter, and was preferred to Reynolds. Mallet, a Scotchman, of no high literary fame, and of infamous character, partook largely of the liberality of the Government. John Home, a Scotchman, was rewarded for the tragedy of Douglas both with a pension and with a sinecure place. But, when the author of "The Bard" and of "The Elegy in a Country Churchyard" ventured to ask for a he was refused.' And this year (1905) is the centenary of the death of the patriot Pitt, the famous son of that great Englishman, the Earl of Chatham, whom that titled sycophaut displaced! What a contrast! It was under the Administration of Lord Aberdeen that we engaged in the disastrous Crimean War. Under Mr. Gladstone's Premiership (who always called himself a Scotchman) occurred the lamentable death of General Gordon, Home Rule, and the surrender at Majuba, entailing the recent war, with its enormous sacrifice of blood and treasure, under the Premiership of Mr. Balfour, who never wearies, on every conceivable occasion, in and port of ecount in deal wine himself a Sectaliman. ing the opinion of a notable French writer:-'The English are the very quintessence of the Imperial brain; they are a superfine people, and it is characteristic of the superfine element, with the largest, most comfortable and best i.e., the English, that it never makes

What pestiferous patriotism all that what egregious effrontery to retail that concluding Gallie compliment! We have no doubt whatever (and it seems advisable to state that these comments are made by a member of the superfine race that never makes mistakes) that the writer of the lines quoted has utterly failed to gather the dimmest conception of real patriotism. He elsewhere cites the case of the Japanese: we can only say that the patriotism that has put Japan where it is had nothing to do with emphasising the distinction between northerners and southerners. He must be a very Judas of his cult; and we can but THE compilers of the annual report and hope that the local society will refuse to year book for 1905 of the Boyal Fociety of associate itself with such idle propaganda. A project is on foot which will render Moul mein a future railway centre of importance. The railway from Pegu to Moulmein is nearly completed, and now two additional schemes of railway extension are being seriously considered. From information from the Straits a reconnsissance survey is at this moment proceeding towards the Siamese frontier which, if it gives promise of success, will lead to building of a connecting line between Moulmein and the Siamese railway system. Some of our Scotch friends are much perturbed by the use of the word England as a general term when speaking of the United Kingdom, legitimate grievance, have organised a society or confederacy for worrying public men on the "Great Britain and Ireland" is correct, and in all public documents the United Kingdom is so described. We cannot, however, in everyday life employ so unwieldy a term, and therefore, in default of a better name, that of the vastly predominant partner is uniformly used and universally recognised, just as we use the abbreviation "Co." to express the junior partners in a firm. Scotland receives ample compensation for any imaginary slight or injustice by the misuse of the word "British," which frequently covers matters and things essentially English. Thus we hear of "British" wheat, British" dairy produce. "British" language, but we never order "British" whisky. The use of the obsolete term "Britain' excludes Ireland, and for that reason alone is unsuitable, illogical, and unfair. Some of our public men have been cajcled or frightened into acquiescence, as have some of our less influential journals. The words England and English are quite good enough, and when used in a concrete sense are readily distinguishable and understood. We think, therefore, that public men, more particularly, would do well to ignoreany such communications, and treat them with deserved indifference,-St George's Society Year Book, 1905.

--- CHARGE TIODING AND RAT-CATCHING.

It is at times not a little amusing to see how the officials of Canton attempt to follow the lead of Hongkong-by proclamations-and thereby think they are introducing sound reforms and benefiting the people. The Vicercy has recently issued a proclamation urging the agents of the supposed Sanitary Board to do all they can to prevent the spread of the plague by the catching of rats. Sundry instructions are issued, and good grandmotherly advice is given, but those who are addressed do not understand the A.B.C. of the work which it is assumed they are capable of accomplishing. One direction seems to be rather doubtful of good. All rats picked up in the streets are to be carried to and flung into the river. This is rather instructive, inasmuch as thousands of the people still drink the water of the river. But, perhaps, the plague germs will get drowned in the tides. -N.-C. Daily

REFRAIN FROM ST. PATRICK'S

A London paper says:-There is a contagion in Irish enthusiasm. Some remark was occasioned by a gentleman with a large black moustache and a bold, spacious nose, who pursued his musical path along the middle of the street. He was a walking garden of shamrock; every buttonhole accommodated some. and one regretted that he had forgetten to have consistent, at any rate. His tie was green, and there were green ribbons at various spots on his person. As he marched, firmly and spectacularly, he sang through the branches with a volume of voice that made his good intentions manifest. What he lacked in accent he made up for in vociferation. Big Irishmen turned to look at him in stup faction; hearty hod-carriers and patriotic paviours watched him out of sight, as his song receded through the traffic. Even when he was no longer to be seen, and the last of his vegetation had drifted from view, one heard the burden of his song echo out of the Oh, der vearin' of der green,

Oh, der vearin' of der green, Dey vos h ngin' men an' vimmins, too, For der vesrin' of der green,

FRENCH CAPITAL IN JAPAN.

Some important developments are about to be made with the aid of foreign capital in the timber and glass industries in Japan. A kabushiki kaisha has been formed with a capital of Y950,000 in shares of Y500, which will carry on the lumber and sawmill business in Japan, three or four mills being established in different parts of the country. The principal brauch of this business will be the export trade, and Canadian engineers will be in charge of the newest and best machinery of the trade, to be driven by electricity. We might add that the capital is furnished by French, English, and Japanese capitalists, and all the shares, already fully paidup, are taken by the promoters. The capital of the big glass undertaking is Y1,500,000furnished by French, Belgian, and Japanese capitalists-in Y500 shares, also taken by the promoters and fully paid-up. The factory will be at Osaks. on a piece of land covering 20,000 the tsubo. The technical engineers, foremen, and many of the workmen will be Franch and Belgian. Both syndicates, which are represented in Japan by Mr. R. Loonen, had their origin or conception in Paris.

A WARNING TO SHIPMASTERS.

The Singapore Government has sent to the Hongkong Government copies of an Act to prevent the landing and leaving of decrepit beggars at Straits Settlement ports. The Act has been recently amended. BEFORE THE FULL COURT.

THE SALE OF A NEWSPAPER. This was an appeal from the decision of the Puisne Judge in the case of Tam Man Sam v. Tam Yau and Choung Sau-pang, the original action being a claim for $1,000, $500 for return of money deposited by plaintiff with defendant on 2nd June, 1905, in part payment of purchase money for the business, property and effects of the Sai Kai Kung Yick Co., under contract, and $500 for damages for breach of said contract. Mr. H. E. Pollook, K.C., instructed by Mr. C. E. H. Beavis (of Mes-rs. Wilkinson and Grist), appeared for appellants, and Mr. M. W. Slade, instructed by Mr. Steavenson (of Messrs. Deacon, Looker, and Deacon), appeared for

The facts were that a Chinese newspaper was offered for sale, and plaintiff's tender was accepted by the liquidators, but when plaintiff and his staff attempted to take possession on a cortain date they were ordered out.

Mr. Pollock, in opening, said their Lordships would remember that the matter came before the Court on a previous occasion. Au order was made on 4th November, 1905, for a special case. to be stated, but when the matter came subsequently before their Lordships it transpired case to be stated, and following the suggestion made by the Court each party was to give its own version of the various clauses in dispute. It would be convenient if he referred to the special case, because it contained the document which they submitted was very important, the committee in thanking Mr. Shewan for his agreement between the parties, the document which contained the clause with reference to the forfeiture of the deposit money. After reading the special case, counsel stated that the question was whether appellant's deposit of $500 was liable to forfeiture. There was no doubt that with conditions which the Puisne Judge had decided he had no right to do. Appellant was bear in mind that it was admitted on behalf of the respondents that such a condition was made. The Chief Justice-The effect would be the same as if the tender had not been made?

Mr. Pollock-Yes. Continuing, he said it had not that effect. It was important as showing that the appellant did not wish to repudiate the contract. As a matter of fact he was too eager and wanted to take over the business some ten days before he had a right to do it. Proceeding. he contended that the only right to forfeit a deposit would arise if the conduct of the party amounted to repudiation of his part of the contract. It could not be said that appellant was in default until after 14th June, assuming that on the 4th June he did something which ne ought not to have done. He aid not show any intention of repudiation. He was too eager. Having become the highest tender, he was anxious to take the control of the business. Mr. Slade, for the respondents, contended that of law gave no other grounds of forfeiture of the deposit, the vendors could appropriate the deposit under those rules.

Mr. Pollock replied to the points raised by Mr. Slade.

Their Lordships reserved judgment.

DISORDBRLY BEHAVIOUR.

Mr. C. Mooney, secretary to the Hongkong Hotel Co., proceeded against Wong Ah-lio, on summons for (1) behaving in a disorderly manner; and (2) using abusive language towards Mrs. Mooney, whereby a breach of the peace might have been occasioned. The defendant had taken out a cross-summons for assault.

Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton appeared for Wong Ab-ho, while Mr. Mooney conducted his own

Mr. C. Mooney, sworn, said the defendant created a disturbance and used insulting language to his wife on February 4th. The defendant's master, Mr. George Keeble, was an old schoolmate of witness', and was dining with him that day. While they were having dinner defendant knocked at the door and demanded admittance, which was refused. She then became noisy and leaving the house returned with an Indian constable, and again demanded admittance. His wife went out to see what was the matter, and a few moments afterwards witness went out, as the noise continued. He asked the defendant what she was making the row about, and on his approaching her she threw herself on the ground and behaved like a mad woman, on which he told supplies, together with the expansion his wife to return with him into the house, and he slammed the door in the defendant's face. They continued dinner, but finding that the noise without continued her master said he would go out to see what was the trouble. The amah, he believed, "went for ' her master, tearing his jacket.

Defendant increase. knew that her master went to see witness. He was not present when his wife went out the first time to ascertain the cause of the trouble, so he did not see what happened. He stayed to dinner and while they were dining witness heard a rot outside. She went to learn the cause of the trouble, and saw the defendant there. Her mother asked the defendant in, but she refused to enter, saying she would not go in for all the world's money. George Keeble was afraid of the defendant; she took all his money and only gave him brandy in return. Defendant brought two Indian policemen to the door, which she began to bang, and called witness all sorts of names. She saw her pulling Mr. Keeble about, so pushed her hands off.

In January the excess amounted to Y9,240,000, Y5,540,000 in February, and Y3,000,000 to the middle of March. This state of affairs is inevitable so long as the Government continues its loan policy, which causes the expansion of currency and the rise in the price of commodities. As shown above, the large amount of imports that continued up to June, last was mainly an undue feeling of apprehension or suspicion Scotland wishes to repeal, supply at once a the entire journey lay before her—the brought about by the purchase of militar currency and the consequent rise in general prices. With the stoppage of the importation of military supplies the total amports naturally fell off, but since November they have again begun to rise, and at present there is no indication of the tide turning. This result has no doubt been caused by the high prices prevailing in the market. On examining the principal articles of import it will be observed that there is a considerable falling-off in wool, leather, and other articles for military use, while the importation of muslin, shirtings, woollen cloths, etc., has made a marked

Turning to exports it will be seen that many articles have been adversely affected owing to the increase in the cost of production. It was only in November and December that exports totalling over 30 million yen were recorded. The total amount of exports for the first two months of this year reached the large sum of 511 million yen, but this was owing to the large sales of raw silk brought over from last year. A variable increase is noticeable in copper, rice, cotton fabrics, porcelains, etc., while a large decrease has taken place in cotton yarn, silk there, neither did he catch hold of the defendant fabrics, straw braid, matting, etc. Cotton yarn shows a decrease for the first two months of this Mrs. Mooney said her mother took a friend of year, as compared with the corresponding period of 1905, amounting to Y3,690,000.

The future trade outlook is by no means reassuring, continues the Tokyo periodical. The Government will before long carry out the redemption of the fourth and fifth domestic war bonds, and though a greater part of these issues are held by foreigners, from 70 to 80 million yen worth of bonds are in the hands of Japanese. That amount will consequently go to swell the currency already in circulation, while an increased issue of convertible notes, of no small amount, will be found necessary for payment of the new domestic loan. These events all tend towards further increasing prices, and to the continued excess of imports over exports.

It is satisfactory to observe that this view is being shared by the more intelligent section of the American public. But the impression which appears to prevail among some Americans that Japanese are behind the Chinese boycott movement is as misleading as it would be mischievous in its effect. That the Chinese, as the result of the Japanese victory over the Russians, have become changed in their attitude towards foreigners may be true, but this should rather be regarded as a reaction of the oppression which the latter have long exercised over the Chinese. If America had treated Chinese fairly and reasonably the boycott movement would never have begun. is manifestly wrong therefore to charge the Japanese with instigating Chinese in their attitude egainst Americans. Even if American articles are excluded from the Chinese market Japanese manufactures have not reached a stage as to supply the market, and if there is any country to be dreaded in this direction it would be Germany, though it can hardly be imagined for a moment that she has instigated the Chinese in their boycott agitation.

DESIGNING CORPSE FACTORIES.

Although there are natural climatic differences between Hongkong and Singapore owing to difference of latitude, the former having a much wider range of temperature than the latter, the great common sanitary disability from which both towns suffer arises from identical causes. The first of these, says the Singapore Free Press, consists in all the evil conditions that are connoted in the expressive phrase "back to back building ' including permanent exclusion of light and air, and permanent rejention of a stagnent and foul atmosphere, and its saturation with. noisome organic emanations and products that must practically decompose in situ. DISPUTE AT BUNDER ABBAS.

Trouble has arisen at Bunder Abbas between the British and Persian authorities. At the instance, it is believed, of the Russian Consul, the Director of Customs objected to the position chosen for the site of a cable house for the telegraph line recently laid by the Indian Government. The British proposed a site for the building, but the authorities dissented, and commenced constructing a telegraph office near the beach, right across the cable, in spite of the opposition of the British Consul, who preceeded to the spot with a guard and formally protested. The Persians, fearing trouble, posted soldiers to protect the telegraph office.

A LADY'S TRAVELS FROM THE

CAPE TO CAIRO.

Cairo, March 11. Miss Mary Hall, the first lady to accomplish the feat of crossing the whole length of the African Continent from the Cape to Cairo, is l now making a stay in Cairo to rest from the club for Chinese. When informed that no need fatigue of her wonderful journey, though northwards from Gondokoro the courageous traveller left the adventurous phase behind her, and abandoned herself to the luxurious comforts of tourist steamers to Khartoum, and of Nile dehabeahs and wagons-lits from there to Cairo. The most remarkable feature of the exploit is perhaps that Miss Hall (who of course, is no novice at travelling, or even exploration) journeved with no companion of her own sex. No less wonderful is the fact that throughout the thousands of miles of forest, plains, rivers, and lakes traversed by the intrepid lady, she was never for long away from the haunts of civilisation. Livingstone would bless, and Stanley would exclaim in wonder; for Miss Hall's travels emphasise the amazing change that has come over the face of Africa within the short space of 15, or even 10, years. It was marvel-lous enough when Gondokoro and the Upper STEINWAY, Nile were brought within the sphere of tourist travel, but that sphere is now spreading to Uganda and the equatorial lakes, and eventually them. After the war, however, while every they have shared the railway facilities equally it will embrace all that lies between the seat

> This was, roughly, Miss Hall's itinerary: From the Cape to Chinde by sea; on from Chinde overland as far as Kituts, under the auspices of the African Lakes Corporation of whose assistance she speaks with deep gratitude. Then by land and lake, and along the great Stevenson road to Lake Tanganyika, where a wait of several weeks for a northern bound steamer enable Miss Hall to visit some of the .Christian missions of this region, such as Dr. Hetherwick's at Blantyre, the University On disembarking at officer detached a small escort of soldiers to safe conduct their charge into safety at Bukoba. This set of courtesy is worthy of being noted by bellicose observers. The journey thou continued round the Victoria Nyanza, striking north from Mengo to Lake Albert Nyanza, which was crossed in a rowing boat, the traveller and her native servants camping on shore by night. From Nimule land marching was resumed as far as Gondokoro and comfort.

No less extraordinary than the courage and endurance displayed was Miss Hall's success in inspiring respect and loyalty among her native portors and attendants by prudence and kindness.-Globe.

> WASHINGTON AND TRADE UNIONISM.

President Roosevelt deserves no small credit for his courage in peremptorily refusing to British Premier so terribly fears. The trade unionists who attended at the White House represented, it is estimated, a voting power of two millions, being much more than sufficient to turn the scale between Republicans and Democrats at the next Presidential election. But strong party leader though he be, Mr. Roosevelt positively declined to associate himself with the further crusade against capital demanded by the deputation. It was certainly a very extensive him to endorse. Were it given legislative effect in the United States American capital would to emigrate to some country where economic Soilers. laws are better understood. Mr. Roosevelt, although vehemently antegonistic to the combinations known as Trusts-or, rather, to the abuse of the enormous powers they exercisemost rightly sets his face against their entire; suppression by legislative methods. It would capitalists, great or small, prohibited from forming partnerships, on joint stock principles, for the furtherance of their own commercial or financial interests. That, and nothing less, is what American trade unionism aims at; as the United Kingdom, rank Socialism has largely superseded its original tenet, which—as also in this country-solely sought to protect labour from capitalistic tyranny. That is no longer the position on either side of the Atlantic; IEN TING. both there and here the trade union forces have fullen, for practical purposes, under Socialistic control, and we heartily wish Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman could be trusted to display as much moral courage as Mr. Roosevelt did.—Globe.

The Italian newspapers comment bitterly upon the absonce of official German condolences as regards the eruption of Vesuvius, in comparison with the lavish sympathy and help received from other Governments. interpret the Emperor William's telegram to Count Goluchowski as a threat to Italy. It is felt in Vienna that the telegram places Austria in an undignified position.

NAVAL AND MILITARY NOTES.

The average number of troops in South Africa in the years named and the cost, including the expenditure under military works loan, were as follows:—1903-04, 31,000, £9,190,000; 1904-5, 23,000, £4,140,000; and 1905-06, 20,000 £2,700,000.

A man formerly employed in Devenport Dockyard has just addressed to Vice-Admiral Henderson (superintendent) a letter in which he expresses regret for having some years ago appropriated property of the value of 6d. belonging to the Government. The writer, who signs his letter "A Christian", encloses 2s. as "conscience money".

At Christie's saleroom, London, Nelson's famous memorandum to his fleet was sold for £3,600 to Mr. Sabin, of Shaftesbury avenue.

Mr. Sabin made the purchase to save the memorandum going out of the country, and if the nation like to purchase it for some museum they could have it for the same amount as he purchased it for. If not, then it would undoubtedly go abroad.

An interesting official paper has just been issued showing the original cost and present estimated value of the Italian Navy. It appears that the total cost of the unvy has been £28,368,000, and its present actual value is £17,453,560. The Minister of Marine now proposes to sell eleven old ships of the fourth and fifth classes, as well as many old torpe loboats, and to devote the proceeds to the construction of new vessels.

carrying capacity of 1,000 tons, and embodies several novelties in the direction of loading and transporting. The ship is fitted with two large goose-neck craves to plumb one over each side, for loading and unloading, and the engines are worked by electric motors. The vessel is TIENTSIN | creating considerable interest.

> An expert instructor on kite-flying has been appointed for the army at £600 a year. Experi ments at Aldershot have proved highly successful. Mr. Cody has been for come time engaged at Aldershot on kite-flying experiments, which have proved enormously successful. The care of the balloons is vested in the Balloon Companies of the Royal Engineers, and all forces in the field will in future have a kite section attached for observation purposes.

> In celebration of St. Patrick's Day, the annual festival dinner of the Irish Medical Schools and Graduates' Association was held on March 17th in London. In responding to the toast of "The Guests", Lieutenant-General Sir John French said the relations between those medical schools and the army had been very close indeed. The army was very deeply indebted to the military medical officers, and as showing not only their skill, but their bravery, a list was recently published of no fewer that 35 who had received the Victoria Cross. During the South African war they rendered invaluable service.

The executive of the Chatham circle of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, in their annual report, issued on March 18th announce that the Duke of Connaught has accepted the position of patron-in-chief, in succession to the late Duke of Cambridge. It is also stated that special campaign pensions have been secured for Crimenn and Indian Mutiny men, and that naval prize money, dating as far back as 1860, has been recovered. Many widows who lost their husbands during the South African war have been provided with posions, and their children have been entered at the Royal Victoria Asylum and the Duke of York's School, and mothers set out in the world. An old Q.M.S. R.E., was granted a meritorious service medal with annuity, and two other claims have been admitted; one being for a non-commissioned officer of the Scots Guards, who distinguished himself at the Alma. Widows have secured their husbands' effects and balances, and a Baltic medal was procured for an old sailor who had proviously served at the siege of St. Jean d'Acre, and a clasp for Sebs-topol, granted to a late chief petty officer, R.N., after a lapse of 51 years!

The report of the Comptroller and Auditor-General on Dockyard Expense Accounts states that during the year 1904-5 a new system of payment of wages for certain classes of machine work has been in force in some of the factories and shops in his Majesty's Dockyards. This system, which is quite distinct from ordinary piecework, is known as the "premium system Its effect, as regards the individual worker, is that he is thereby enabled to obtain a money reward proportionate to the amount of time which he is able to save out of a given standard time, while as regards the employer, besides a proportion of the saving on the standard time which accrues to him, the system operates to reduce the cost of output by increasing the quantity of work from the motive power. machinery, tools, and plant. In the notice to workmen issued by the Admiralty the hope is expressed that the introduction of the premium system will lead to the workmen taking an increased interest in their work, machines, tools, and equipment generally, and to keenness on their part in pointing out to their officers where improvements may be made and time saved, resulting in better methods of work.

THE AWAKENING OF CHINA.

HOW ETON MAY HELP.

The Daily Graphic publishes the following interesting extract from a letter written by the Roy. Arthur Polhill, an old Eton Blue, who has been for the last twenty years a missionary in

"Shuting, Wanhsien W. China.
"The news has just reached us of a most remarkable attempt to riot at Shanghai. Many will ask what is the real cause of this anti-foreign demonstration. Partly, no doubt, it is con-nected with the American boycott, and the way Westerners so often behave towards the Chinese at the ports. 't shows, also, the vitality of young China, even though in its worse side. The marvellous rapidity of the present change is affecting everyone almost in every place. In spite of these occasional outbreaks, I feel it is a marvellous orportunity for influencing the Chinese for Christianity. Perhaps the most effectual way is now by reaching the scholars, who are bent upon getting Western education. In fact, the most astonishing Edict that has ever been put out by the Throne was last summer, when the whole system of competitive examination for degrees was terminated by a stroke of the pen, and a new order and system inaugurated on Western lines, which includes mathematics, history (ancient and modern of all countries), chemistry, science, and com-parative religious. What does this mean? It means that in a few years enlightened men who have been to Europe or to Japan will be filling all the posts of influence throughout the Empire.

The immediate effect may be illustrated by what A new type of coaling craft has arrived at Devenport, designated "C 80". She has a happened here ten days ago. Dr. W. Wilson, Devenport, designated "C 80". She has a education in the city, and we were begged to help them. Dr. Wilson is a great science man, and electrician: Thompson is an engineer: so we have promised to help them in chemistry, science, and study of English. One student present had been for eighteen months to Japan and is, of course, full of new ideas, while the others look up to him quite as their leader. Several more students are about to start for Japan. Even now there are over 5,000 Chinese students in Japan. I am now coming to my point. What has happened here, in one city for in the interior, 2,000 miles from the coast, is happening all over China. I feel our Western schools and colleges should be in real practical sympathy with this movement! When a colossal Empire numbering almost a quarter of the entire population of the world, turns to the West for enlightenment, what can the West do that is practical to help? In another decade the crisis will be over and the Empire moulded. What a grand opportunity for some brilliant men to sacrifice their present worldly prospects and lay down their lives upon the alter > called up yonder the hero's reward will be a crown that fadeth not away'. "Here is a suggestion how Eton might help. A standing committee might be formed to whom donations could be sent: £10 a year would support a schoolmaster or native evangelist, and £60 a year would be sufficient for a Westerner of sacrifice-for their fellow-men. Eton gained glory to her name in the late African war.

And now a far greater war is raging and here warriors are wanted. And when the roll is to live upon in the interior of China. "If we fail to use the present opportunity, what will be the result? It is perfectly certain that Japan will step in and mould the Chinese upon lines of materialistic agnosticism instead of Christianity."

THE CHINESE COMMISSION TO ENGLAND.

Reuter's Agency learns that the Imperial Chinese Commissioners, under the presidency of Prince Tsai-Tse, who have reached London, are the beaters of a letter from the Emperor to the King, which they will present to his Majesty on his return to England. During their stay in this country Mr. Byron Brennan, formerly British Consul-General at Shanghai. has been officially attached to the mission by the Foreign Office, and it is intended to appoint experts in the various departments of study who shall prepare the commissioners' minds for what they intend next to examine. The field for investigation and inquiry which has been allotted to the commissioners is so wide that at this early stage it is impossible to indicate definitely the plan they propose to follow, but it is hoped that during their stay in this country, which will extend over several weeks, they will be able to visit some of the more important provincial centres as well as London. commission numbers altogather some 30 officials. including attachés, secretaries, and interpreters. The instructions given are to make a mission of investigation in Japan, Great Britain, France, and Belgium. The commissioners have spent some weeks in Japan, and the programme is to remain about five weeks in this country and a month or so in France, and then a simil ir period in Belgium. The commissioners expect to leave Europe on their return in about four months. Their business is to study the details of the central administration of the countries to which they are accredited, together with the questions of local government and the relations existing between the central and local administrations. The organization of the various Government departments will also occupy their attention.

ARRIVAL OF THE CHINESE MISSION IN LONDON.

The Evening Standard of March 23rd says :-In view of the immense strides which China is making towards Western civilisation, the arrival in London from New York of the Chinese Mission is of the greatest interest.

The Commission is headed by his Imperial Highness Dake Tsai Tse, who is a cousin of the Emperor of China, and a clever and distinguished man. In addition to the Doke, the Commission comprises one captain, one doctor, one colonel, one major, fourteen secretaries, and even attendants.

The Commission will remain in London before going on to Paris, one month or longer. The Duke is staying at the Chinese Legation, and the other members of the party at various

To one of our representatives to-day Mr. Teac, the official secretary to the Commission, who is a graduate of an American University, gave some interesting particulars of the objects and aims of the tour.

" Two Commissions have been sent forth by our Emperor," he said. "Ours is officially accredited to Japan, England, France, and Belgium, the other, at present in Berlin, to the United States, Germany, Italy, and possibly

"Although not officially accredited to the United States, we had time to marvel at the wonderful enterprise of the Americans. Amazed as many of the party were, they were too proud to display any emotion. "The energy, the 'hustle,' the buildings, and the rapid transit methods roused such enthusiasm, however, in one of our members that he displayed his emotions, and was severely reprimanded for doing so.

"The chief objects of the Commissioners are the studies of the methods of central Governments—we do not at present concern ourselves with municipal work --- and the educational systems of the various countries. To the latter we attach the greatest importance, for on a modern and sound system of education the future of China depends. "Two army officers attached to the Commission represent the new Chinese Army type. They will no doubt visit Aldershot and other military centres, and will[make their reports, not to the Emperor, but to Vicercy Yuan Shi-kai. of the province of Chili, who is the leader of the new army movement in China "It has been said that China is to be given a Constitution in fifteen years, but I cannot speak with certainty on that matter.

The greatest care is being taken both as to the style and wording of the documents which will be sent to the Throne. A number of students proficient in languages are sent ahead to each country we visit. They afterwards prepare the reports, and are left behind when we leave to finish the work.

"We regret very much the absence of King Edward, to whom we must present our credentials before becoming, as it were, the nation's guests.

"The Commissioners will probably visit the House of Commons several times and go to Oxford and Cambridge."

The principal Commissioners are H. E. Shang Chi-heng, ex-provincial treasurer of Shantung, and H. E. Ti Sheng-to, Chinese Minister designate to Belgium, where he will be left when the Commission returns to China. Duke Tsai Tsè takes intense interest in chemistry and photography, and is highly esteemed in China for his integrity of purpose.

JAPANESE NAVAL VISITORS.

LONDON'S ENTHUSIASM EXPLAINED.

The mail papers give extraordinary prominence to all kinds of news and gossip about the Japanese naval visitors. One thus explains the reasons:-

"Five or six years ago these comings and goings occasioned little or no interest. Many things, however, have happened in the interval. Japan is now the ally of Great Britain, and the occasion might arise—who can prophesy? when the men who are about to reach this country might have to share with British bluejackets the defence of our common interest in the Far East. But these men are not merely possible companions in the hour of danger of the seamen of our own fleet. They are the battle-worn veterans of a struggle in which, by courage and caution, devotion to duty, and the exhibition of the highest technique of fighting efficiency, they placed their nation among the Great Sea Powers of the world. officers and men who will be in London next week sightseeing under the happiest conditions are the same as last year were enduring all the hardships and reapingat how great a cost—all the glories of the blockade of Port Arthur and the final battle in the Straits of Tsushima. They were instrumental in teaching the armed Powers of the world lessons in shipbuilding, armament, and equipment which have caused all the existing fleets to become obsolete, even though the creation of the fleets of the future has hardly been begun. Is it surprising, therefore, that the residents of the metropolis are preparing to accord to these herces of many an anxious watch and hardlycontested fight such a welcome as is always in store for those who, in the hour of stress, have shown those primal qualities for which the British race in its pioneer days was conspictions, and which we may hope have not even now deserted us?"

AMERICAN INSURANCE.

CABINET MINISTER'S ARREST DEMANDED.

A seusation was caused in New York on March 23 by Mr. Jerome, the public prosecutor, asking Judge O'Sullivan to issue warrants for the arrest of Mr. George B. Cortelyon, the Postmaster-General, Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss, formerly Secretary of the Interior, and Mr. George W. Perkius, a partner of Mr. J. Pierpoint Morgan.

Judge O'Sailivan, in charging the grand jury, declined to accept Mr. Jerome's view that money paid by insurance companies to political organisations constituted larreny, and ordered the jury to fix the responsibility.

Mr. Jerome declared that if Judge O'Sullivan was right, it was the duty of the jury to indict Mr. Perkins, who was formerly vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Company, for larceny, and Mr. Cortolyou and Mr. Bliss, who are respectively chairman and treasurer of the Republican National Committee, as receivers of stolen goods.

Mr. Jerome invited the judge to issue the warrants immediately, saying he would take the matter to the highest court, but Judge O'Sullivan refused.

Mr. Jerome is taking other steps to bring the matter into court.
